When my wife, daughter and I were traveling in a rented car through Nottingham, England, on our way to a cousin's home in the northern suburbs, I became thoroughly confused by the maze of circular and one-way streets. Finally, we spotted a policeman and pulled up to ask directions. We were surprised when he re-moved his tall helmet, opened the back door and slid in beside our daughter. "It'll be much easier to show you", he explained.

Off we went through a series of left and right turns, traffic lights and even a short jaunt up a one-way lane the wrong way. Twenty minutes later we arrived at a main intersection. "Now you'll be all right", announced our guide. "Just turn here, stay on the road for eight or nine kilometers, and you're there". With that, he opened the door, got out, replaced his helmet and strode briskly off.
