

Consultant at Deloitte

Interview Details – The first round was an on-line test containing aptitude and C questions. The short-listed students(around 30-40) were called for a group discussion round. They randomly allotted students into various teams( around 5 different teams containing around 6-8 students each) . Each team was given a real time problem and the team had to collectively come up with a solution. The entire process was monitored and few students(around 2-3 per team) were short-listed for the last round. The last round was personal Interview. Each round was an elimination round and finally around 6 students were selected.

The hiring and the interview process takes a long time to get initiated but once initiated the process is quick. There are basically 3 rounds of interview. One the HR, next the technical round and the last the partner or the director round

Interview Question – Nothing was too difficult in the interview round. They mostly concentrate on your resume and ask you about your career goals. For the GD round, you have to communicate your ideas well.

Mainly the questions are based on your previous work experience